No. 179-ITC(PN)/70.—Attention is invited to the Ministry of Foreign Trade Public Notice No. 76-ITC(PN)/70, dated the 28th May, 1970 issued on the above mentioned subject.

2. Following signing of the new AID non-project loan agreement (Loan No. 386-H-207), the question of further revalidation of import licences has been considered and it has been decided that licences issued on or after 1st January, 1970 may be revalidated on a request, upto fifteen months from the date of issue of the licence or 31st March, 1972 (exclusive of the usual one month grace period), whichever is earlier. This revalidation will, however, be admissible only if the authorisation letters for opening letters of credit issued by the Ministry of Finance against the licences are exclusively under Loan No. 386-H-207, or where the importer certifies that no authorisation letter for opening letter of credit has been applied for or obtained in respect of any portion of the licence. The payments to U.S. suppliers should be finalised within thirty days from the date of shipment.

3. Importers holding AID licences issued on or after 1st January, 1970, seeking revalidation, should apply direct to the licensing authority concerned for extension in the validity period admissible in terms of this Public Notice. The request may be accompanied by true copies of all authorisation letters issued by the Ministry of Finance against the licence, or the importer's certificate referred to above, as the case may be.

4. Importers already holding letter-of-credit-authorisations under AID Loan No. 386-H-207 should apply to the Ministry of Finance for corresponding extension in the authorisations, with a letter, where necessary, from the bank which furnished the relative guarantee, extending the basic validity of the guarantee upto one month beyond the last date permissible for finalisation of payments.
